Grand Master of Grand Encampment of United States and Others Here

COME ON INSPECTION TRIP

Notables Respond to Invitation to View Inspection—McKean Commandery Makes Creditable Showing—Capt. Hein Conducts.

In the person of Most Eminent Sir Lee S. Smith of Pittsburg the highest officer of the Knights Templar of the United States Tuesdty evening visited McKean Commandery, No. 80, of Charleroi, for the first time since its inception. The occasion was the annual inspection of the commandery by the division commander of division No. 2 of which Charleroi is a part.

Most Eminent Sir Lee S. Smith is the grand master of the grand encampment of the United States, and with him Tuesday evening came ther notables in Templar circles. Included in the party were Right Eminent Sir William J. Deihl of Pittsburg, past grand commander of the state of Pennsylvania, right Eminent Sir Harry E. Buckingham of York, past grand commander of the state of Pennsylvania, and Eminent Sir Samuel W. Jeffries of Pittsburg, division commander.

The first assemblage was at 3 o'clock in the afternoon in the rooms of the commandery in the masonic building. At 6 o'clock dinner was served at three hotels, the Wilbur, the Monier and the Walfred to about 125 and the work of inspection was continued in the evening.

The division commander viewed the military maneuvers, which were conducted by Past Commander John K. Hein, and inspected the regalia and equipment. The initiatory degree was confered on a good sized class. Visitors were present from other districts and there was a good representation of Knights from other communities in the Charleroi jurisdiction. A party of about 20 officers and members of the commandery at Brownsville came, as did parties from Pittsburg and Washington.

The high officers came here in response to an invitation from Eminent Sir George W. Cooper, commander of McKean commandery and members. A most creditable showing was made by the local commandery.

BLACKMAILING CHARGE AGAINST BELLE VERNON MAN TO BE PROBED

Claimed That Members of Railroad Section Gang Received Letters Telling Them to Leave Country.

Arrested and charged with attempted blackmail, an Italian named Rocco Clouse of Belle Vernon, was given a hearing before Squire Garletts at Brownsville this week and the case was continued until a later date.

It is alleged that Blackhand letters were forwarded to members of a section crew advising them to leave the country immediately. The excited foreigners thought a fellow-workman who had been suspected was responsible and Clouse was arrested. Chief Detective S. J. Dugan of the Pittsburg and Lake Erie railroad made information, but a hearing has been deferred until more evidence can be secured. The man was held under $200 bail pending a hearing.

CHARLEROI MEN FOUND GUILTY

Silence and Rafferty Given Salty Sentence to Western Penitentiary

SENTENCE FOR TWO DEFERRED

This morning at 10:30 o'clock the jury in the case of the commonwealth against James Shields and Kenneth Matson, of Charleroi, charged together with Frank Rafferty and William Silence with holding up and robbing Albert Sarafin, returned a verdict of guilty. This afternoon at about 1:15 the latter two, Rafferty and Silence, who had been found guilty previously, were sentenced to an indeterminate sentence in the Western Penitentiary of from 18 months to five years. Sentence of Shields and Rafferty was deferred until next Monday morning at 10 o'clock.

The jury in the Shields and Matson case deliberated many hours, having received the case at about 10 o'clock Tuesday morning. An indication of disagreement was given when a note was sent in to Judge McIlvaine before adjournment of court Tuesday night. He shook his head and the tipstaff returned and reported to the jury.

All four of the indicted young men emphatically denied the accusation against them, and there was a show of much sympathy among their friends for them.

LADIES AID SOCIETY HOLDS A BOX SOCIAL

The Ladies Aid society of the First Presbyterian church held a box social at the free library rooms in the Odd Fellows building on Fifth street Tuesday evenng, that was well attended and a success. Boxed lunches brought good prices, and a neat sum was raised for church purposes.

IMPROVEMENT ASKED ON CENTERVILLE ROAD

Citizens Present Request to County Commissioners---Important Link Would be Connected up, it is Claimed by Petitioners

The county commssioners were waited upon Tuesday by a delegation from Centerville and that section of the county in the interest of proposed improvements to certain roads in that part of the county. The trip to Washington was made by automobile. Jonas W. Emery of Centerville and Washington was spokesman for the delegation and placed before the commissioners an abundance of reasons why that part of the county should be given consideration in the matter of improved roads. It was stated that the county had not spent one cent for road improvement in Centerville, while the borough itself had been making a levy of ten mills each year for road improvement and was rapidly improving the highways in that borough. It was shown that Centerville has an assessed valuation of $2,718,115 and a population of 1,413. It was clearly set out the advantages that would be derived from the improvements in which the delegation were interested.

One road asked to be improved is a continuation of the Fredericktown-Beallsville road. It will require but 1.5 miles of improvement to complete a link in this important highway.

Another road in which the party was interested was the improvement of the Pike Run road, from the end of the present improvement on that road, to Centerville, on the National pike. About a mile and two-tenths of improved road would close up that gap. That would give California and Coal Centre an improved road to the National pike and thus access to other improved road, including the road above referred to, were it fully improved. The delegation was also interested in the improvement of about 1.30 mile of road known as the Taylor Run road in Fallowfield township. The Pigeon Creek road running out of Monongahela is improved out to the Roth brewery in Carroll township. Work on further improving of this road out Taylor's Run is now in progress. There is an improved highway from Beallsville to Bentleyville and to Charleroi. The improving of the link in the Taylor's Run road would bring this road to the Bentleyville-Charleroi road. It would be an other connecting link in a system of improved roads in this part of the county and would give a large population outlet over improved roads to many points.

The commissioners admitted that the roads asked to be improved were important highways and would be given consideration with other roads. It is simply a question of money and an equitable distribution of what funds are available for road improvement.

TITLE MATTER SETTLED IN MONONGAHELA SUITS

Common Pleas Cases at Washington Reduced by Agreements, Discontinuances and Other Dispositions—Jury Out in Two Cases.

On this week's trial list of common pleas court at Washington were 41 cases, but on account of continuances, settlements and other dispositions of suits not one is left for the remainder of the week. The jurors will be excused today until Monday next at 1 o'clock. A jury is out in a case heard before Judge McIlvaine and a case heard before Judge Irwin went to the jury this morning.

In the 20 or more suits from Monongahela, in which Martha J. Campbell and others are plaintiffs and a large number of First ward residents, Monongahela, defendants, a settlement has been reached. These cases have been on the trial list from term to term and one or two were heard.

The properties affected in the question that was raised as to the title are part of what was years ago the Williams farm. The matter at issue meant much to the property owners whose title was attacked. Under the terms of agreement the defendants will pay the costs and in consideration the plaintiffs will deliver quit claims deeds to the defendants, thus giving them a clear title to their properties.

WOMAN EDUCATED FOR WORK AS MISSIONARY, WITH EVANGELISTS

Miss May Caster Has Important Duties to Perform—Secretary Work Looked After by Her.

Miss May Caster, instructor of converts with the Minges Evangelistic company, like Rev. and Mrs. Minges was educated at Drake University, in Iowa, specializing in missionary work. Her home is at Leon, Iowa. Miss Caster has been with the company four years, and quiet and unassuming, she does not come before the public with the prominence that others of the company do. Nevertheless without her the company would feel lost, for her duties are among the most important of all. Not only does she figure as an instructor of converts but she does secretarial work and looks after many of the minor, though none the less important details in the affairs of the company.

$10,000 SUIT SOON SETTLED

Five Minutes Sufficient Time for Disposing of Case From Bank Failure

MINE CASES ARE HELD OVER

Five minutes' time was all that was consumed Tuesday at Washington in disposing of a common pleas case that involved a claim for $10,000. It was the suit of Everly South, of Pittsburg, against George F. Auld, of Washington. James L. Iams of Waynesburg, was originally a defendant in the case, but he was not served and consequently the claim was simply against Mr. Auld. No defense was offered. The plaintiff simply proved the bond, on which the action was based, and a verdict was taken, under binding instructions, in favor of the plaintiff and against the defendant, George F. Auld for the full amount of the claim with interest. The verdict was for $12,450.

The suit has been on the court docket for some time, but has been continued from term to term. It is a sequel to the wrecking of the Farmers & Drovers bank of Waynesburg.

The suits of Mary Hager, William McDonald and Robert A. Jefferson against the Pittsburg Coal company and against the Monon. R. C. C. and C. Co., have been continued to the May term. They are actions growing out of the Cincinnati mine disaster. The suit of the B. & O. Railroad Co., against the Reed Construction Co., has been settled. The suit of W. W. Elderkin against F. S. Killius has been dropped to the foot of the entire trial list on account of the death of an important witness. The suit of Alfred C. Smith against the borough of Centerville has been continued.

Biggest Week-Day Crowd Thus Far Hears Evangelist in Forceful Sermon

PASTORS THERE TO ASSIST

Local Ministers Have Part in Devotional Exercises—Prayer Meetings Arranged for Thursday Morning—Tuesday Sermon Synopsis.

The biggest week day audience that so far has been present at the Fifth street tabernacle listened Tuesday to Evangelist Minges preach a forceful sermon on "Who Was Christ," or "What Think Ye of Christ." Fully 1,200 were present, and there was a small delegation present from Belle Vernon.

Three pastors of churches in Charleroi not officially interested in the evangelistic movement had places on the platform, and assisted in the devotions. Rev. W. G. Mead, Ph. D., pastor of the Methodist Episcopal church said the opening prayer. Rev. John R. Burson, pastor of the Washington Avenue Presbyterian church had the scripture reading and Rev. C. P. The meeting was one of the most interesting of the several meetings that have been held at the tabernacle Evangelist Minges went straight after things, showing that Christ is a reality, and that he has always been a reality.

This morning several prayer meetings were held at various points and this afternoon the party of evangelists is spending in making calls.

The prayer meeting committee has announced a list of prayer meetings to be held tomorrow morning. They will be as follows: At the home of Mrs. James Kibler, 308 Ninth street; at the home of [illegible] Reeves, at 230 Fallowfield; at the home of Mrs. Stephen Crest avenue; at the home of Matt Cowell, of 40[illegible] at the home of Mrs. [illegible] North Charleroi.

REGULARITY ALSO PAYS.

If you are planning a trip and conclude to take a certain train, you like to feel sure that that train will run in the day you are to utilize it. If the railway management had a habit of discontinuing this or that train on days when it seemed that there would be less travel than at other times, you would declare that such management constituted the poorest sort of public service.

The advertisements of a store are in their way, just as much devoted to public service as the express train says the Brownsville Telegraph. Not all people travel by express trains every day. Not all people read store advertisements every day.

But the travelers likes to know that the train will be at his service when he does need it. And the ad-reader likes to know that the store-ad will "be there" when it is sought. It would be bad "business policy" for the railway management to run its express trains—or any trains on its schedule—at intermittent or uncertain periods; to make it a guess with intending traveler, as to whether or not a particular train was to be run on any given day or date. If a railway, thus managed, should have competition—and the competing road operated its trains according to schedule, whether such trains were run at a loss or a profit on this or that chance dull day, then the intending traveler would be sure to patronize the competing road.

And so it is with stores. The person who knows that, on any business day, it is possible to learn from his store's ads just what buying opportunities are to be found in that store on that day, is sure to patronize that store.

The intending purchaser who fails to find the "ad" of a store in the newspaper when she looks for it, is not likely to feel a very deep interest in that store. The fact that such store does advertise at irregular intervals will not excuse that other fact that on the day when the "ad." was eagerly sought it was not found.

Regularity in printing store news is as important as regularity in dispatching trains.

AN EARNEST PROTEST.

The senate of Pennsylvania, by an overwhelming majority, has adopted a resolution praying the congress of the United States to repeal the near free trade tariff law which has blighted this country, and especially this state, and enact a law which will give adequate protection to labor and industries.

The resolution recites the stagnation of industries, the alarming number of unemployed the country over, the struggle of many to secure food, rainment and shelter, and expresses the belief that conditions threaten to get worse instead of better. The principle embodied in the resolution appealed to the members of both political parties and was finally adopted with but 11 votes against it.

The adoption of the resolution calling for the repeal of the near free trade tariff legislation is generally accepted as a test of the temper of the people of this state. The senators come direct from the people. They know exactly what their people want and their earnest plea to congress, while likely to be ignored, cannot be disregarded. It is the voice of the greatest industrial state in the union. It is a protest against the inefficiency and incompetency of Democracy and must be accepted as the beginning of the end of Democratic rule in this country.

PICKED UP IN PASSING

In the Chicago Tribune has appeared lately a list of new rules for automobile driving. They are as follows:

1. Upon discovering an approaching team the automobilst must keep offside and cover his machine with a blanket painted to correspond with the scenery.

2. The speed limit this year will be a secret and the penalty for violation will be $10 for every mile an offender is caught going in excess of it.

3. In case an automobile makes a team run away the penalty will be $50 for the first mile and $100 for the second mile, $200 for the third, etc., that the team runs; in addition to the usual damages.

4. On approaching a corner, where he cannot command a view of the road, ahead he must stop not less than 100 yards from the turn, toot his horn and ring a bell, fire a revolver, halloo and send up three bombs at intervals of five minutes.

5. Automobiles must again be seasonably painted; that is, so that they will merge with the pastoral ensemble and not be startling.

6. Automobiles running on the country roads at night must send up a rocket every mile and wait ten minutes for the roads to clear. They may then proceed carefully, blowing their horns and shooting Roman candles.

7. All members of the society will give up Sunday to chasing automobiles, shooting and shouting at them and otherwise discouraging country touring on that day.

8. In case a horse will not pass an automobile, the automobilist will take the machine apart as quickly as possible and conceal the parts in the grass.

9. In case an automobile approaches a house when the roads are dusty it will slow down to one mile an hour and the chauffeur will sprinkle the dust in front of the house with a hand sprinkler.

Law Does Not Provide For Payment on This Class of Animal, According to Information Received by County Commissioner.

The county commisioners have been advised by the state game commissioner to pay no more bounties on mink, as the bounty law does not provide for payment on this animal.

The only noxious animals upon which the law provides that bounties must be paid in this state are wildcat, $4; gray fox, $2; and weasel, $2. Complying with this the commissioners will refuse to pay bounties on any more mink killed in this county.

The amount of money paid out by this county for bounties on noxious animals and birds since payment was first started last December up to February 1, is $2,056. This is the amount given in the certified report made by the commissioners to the auditor general of the state. There is still $89 outstanding which is not included in this report.

DIGGING A POST HOLE.

He Worked Faithfully and Cheerily, but Lacked One Essential.

He was a rigorous worker, and he was digging a post hole in the bed of a river. A post was to be placed in it as part of the extension of a wharf.

He worked hard and got rapidly deeper and deeper.

He struck stones, but he reached down and pried them up.

He got thoroughly soaked, but he grinned cheerfully.

He sang at his task and was an inspiration to all the other workmen.

Five o'clock came, but he faithfully finished his post hole, though it took him ten minutes longer. He was no time server.

Then he climbed, dripping, out on the bank and walked home, happy in the consciousness of good work accomplished.

But he did not put a post into the post hole, and when he came back the next morning he found the hole filled again with mud and completely obliterated.

However, he cheerfully went to work again, singing as he labored, and dug the hole once more.

And the company paid the bill.

SECRET OF SUCCESS.

Be Efficient and Do Things That Other People Do Not Do.

A man has a weary time awaiting to rise in the world by force of sympathy, by getting somebody else to pull him along. You see such people standing around expecting compassion and a lift from some who have succeeded.

But this is not the way success is attained. That comes by working for it, by being worthy of it, by doing one's best, if it comes at all. The world is full of failures because a man hangs back and depends upon others.

Efficiency is the greatest word in the language. There is no real progress without it. And what does efficiency consist of? Of sobriety, honesty, diligence, patience, happiness, unselfishness, good habits and putting in full time.

Of course a man can get rich by not caring for these. He can gamble, steal, defraud, pad payrolls and expense bills, borrow money and never pay. But such riches don't last. They drop a man pretty hard finally.

The only way is to start out in the world and do one's best without waiting to see what others do. As Steinmetz, the master electrician, said, "To earn $100,000 a year do things other people don't do."—Ohio State Journal.

Volcanoes and Disease.

Many strange and exaggerated accounts have been given of terrible diseases in human beings, lower animals and plants as a result of volcanic activity. In a prize essay by Dr. H. J. Johnston-Lavis it is shown that there is no direct connection with disease, but that volcanic outbursts may indirectly cause or increase epidemic disease in several ways. The poisonous fumes may have irritating and depressing effects on the eyes and throat. The disturbance of water courses may bring about the infection of wells and surface supplies with sewage, and interference with ventilation of houses may result from the accumulation of ejected materials. The moral depression from fear, with hunger from the cutting off of food supplies, may have the effect by lessening the resistance of the organization to infection.—Exchange.

Keeping His Secret.

When Lord Wellington was commander of an army in India a certain rich man offered him $500,000 for some secret information on a very important question. Wellington looked thoughtful a few moments, as if he were weighing the temptation. At length he said:

"It appears that you can keep a secret, sir."

"Certainly," said the man, feeling sure that he had gained his point.

"So can I," said Wellington. Good morning, sir." And the man went away with a crestfallen air.

Foresight Defined.

The children had read the word foresight in the reader, and the teacher was endeavoring to make it plain.

"Foresight," she said, "is looking ahead. Now, Freddie, you give me an example of foresight if you can."

"Well, foresight would be not to eat too much breakfast when you knew you were going out into the country to your grandmother's for dinner," explained the boy.—Indianapolis News.

Cheerfulness.

Wondrous is the strength of cheerfulness and altogether past calculation its powers of endurance. Efforts to be permanently useful must be uniformly joyous—a spirit of all sunshine—graceful from very gladness—beautiful because bright.—Carlyle.

"I suppose that you and your wife are two souls with but a single thought."

"That's about the situation, but about half the time she will not tell me what that thought is."—Philadelphia Record.

Enchanted Gardens.

It has always seemed to me that no child had been quite fairly treated who had not lived with the fairies in an enchanted garden. There must be walls about such a garden to hold in memories and tall trees for mystery and much fragrance and shadows—and the child must sometimes play alone that his delicate joy may not be marred. What peace this garden will bring in the old, dry years to come; what ineffable tears, what longing!

Pierre Loti found his first touch of romance in a sweet French garden where there were friendly old aunts much color, perfume and long, idle, still days.

I remember a wonderful haunted wood in Holland which rested at the edge of a queen's garden and was all a soft, translucent green. The trees met overhead and sent down pale green shade, and the little stream that moved so slowly through the woods was like a narrow strip of jade. Even the air was green and heavy with stories, and I knew that there were fairies everywhere, hiding under the leaves, peering at me from the thick fern beds and sailing silver boats down the jade river. —Clara T. MacChesney in Craftsman

Umbrella Morals.

"Not long ago at a tea," said a man who frequents such decadent diversements, "somebody walked off with a new umbrella of mine. What I got in return was not fit for publication.

"I spoke to the host about it—the tea was at a bachelor apartment—and he gave me a list of all those present, with their addresses, about twenty-five person, suggesting that I write and ask who had a new umbrella in place of an old one.

"I took it with some degree of hope which he at once crushed by telling me that on one occasion he had lost a new silk hat at a social function and the hostess had given him a list of sixty four men who had been among those present. He wrote to the entire lot and received four replies in the negative. The others simply ignored his notes of inquiry.

"Thereupon I concluded to let somebody have my new umbrella. But stealing's stealing just the same, in my opinion."—New York Sun.

Freiburg Often Attacked.

During the eight centuries of its existence Freiburg, the ancient cathedral city in Baden, has again and again suffered almost every possible kind of attack. In the wall above the door of the Loretto chapel there is embedded an iron cannon ball which nearly took the life of Louis XV. when he assaulted the city. But the most interesting memorial of an attempt to get Freiburg is the picture on the Schwalben Thor of a peasant with a cart. It commemorates the Freiburgers' habit of jesting at the Swabian peasants. One of them the tale ran, decided to buy Freiburg and brought two sacks of gold and asked, "Was kostet's Städle?" ("What does this bit of town cost?") When opened the sacks were found to contain only sand, which the peasant's wife had prudently substituted for fear of accidents.—London Mail.

China's Procession Would Be Endless.

The population of China has never been exactly ascertained. The latest census, taken some years ago, is said to yield a total of 410,000,000. Perhaps 300,000,000 would be a more nearly correct estimate; even that would absorb no less than one-fifth of the human race. From this total it is easy to estimate that if the Chinese people were to march past a given point in single file the procession would never end. Long before the last of the 300,000,000 had passed by a new generation would have sprung up to continue the endless line.—From "Civilization of China," by H. A. Giles.

Crape on the Door.

The custom of placing crape on the door of a house where there has been a recent death had its origin in the ancient English heraldic customs and dates back to the year 1100 A. D. At that period hatchments, or armorial ensigns, were placed in front of houses when the nobility or gentry died. The hatchments were of diamond shape and contained the family arms quartered and covered with sable.

Reasonable.

The Boss—Take that suit at $16, and I'm losing money. Customer—Well, I'll take it; but how much are you losing? The Boss—Well, I'll tell you. I paid $5 for it and have had to store it, brush it, insure it and advertise it for ten years. Figure it out for yourself.—New York Globe.

Made Over.

"I'm all out of kelter," declared the typewriter man. "My arm feels loose, my back seems twisted, and my left leg is shaky. What would you advise?"

"I think I'd get myself rebuilt," suggested the automobile manufacturer.—Kansas City Journal.

Attire to Suit.

"The cashier and his bride were certainly appropriately dressed for their wedding."

"How so?"

"She wore a changeable silk, and he had on a check suit."—Baltimore American.

Asking Too Much of the Bank.

The officials of the English savings bank department, a correspondent writes, occasionally find themselves regarded as a kind of universal purveyors. A depositor sent his bank book with this modest request: "There are some little things I should like to get from London, and one is some natural leaf tobacco. I should be glad if you will send two ounces and charge to my account. It is only to be obtained in the largest tobacco stores." We failed to comply with his wishes, whereupon he wrote an indignant letter to the comptroller of our department.—Manchester Guardian.

Languages of India.

One hundred and fifty different languages are spoken in India, most of them unwritten, and this fact frequently leads to trouble in the courts of that oriental country. Strangely enough, Indians frequently drift into that capital who can find no one able to understand their vernacular. Neither the court nor the court interpreters understand some of the litigants and witnesses in legal cases.

TABERNACLE CROWDED

he said: In the very outset I wish to say that Jesus Christ is the Saviour of the world, or He is the greatest blasphemer and impostor that ever lived. The unbeliever has the task of explaining, then, how a falsehood has done more good in the world than the truth. If He is the Saviour, then we ought to get out and talk against Him. If He is all that He is claimed to be, then let us get lined up on His side. If I were to ask you what you thought about Woodrow Wilson, Roosevelt, or Bryan; what you thought about the King of England or the Emperor of Germany, you would not hesitate to tell me. But these men concern but a few; they will soon pass away. This man that I am speaking about concerns every man in the yorld. "What Think Ye of Christ"? "Whose Son is He"?

What do you think of Him as a teacher? He used the very simplest illustrations in the world. Yet they said of Him, "No man ever spoke as this man." As long as the sheep graze on the hillside; as long as the lily grows in the valley; as long as the vine grows in the garden; as long as the sparrows twitter from the caves and the old hen broodes over her chicks in the dooryard, just so long will the sermons of Christ be fresh in the hearts of men.

At this point the evangelist turned to a courtroom scene as an illustration and said: I wish to introduce a few witnesses. Ordinarily you call upon a man's friend to testify in his behalf, but I wish to bring in his enemies. The first that I will call is Caiphas, the president of the Sanhedrin and the one who condemned Him to die. He condemned Him to die because he said he was the Son of God. The next is Pilate who stated that he found nothing in this man worthy of death. Judas then came and testified that he had betrayed innocent blood. Then came the demons who proclaimed that he was the son of God and then the angles who announced his arrival to the shepherds in the fields of Bethlehem.
